NOMINATION FORM
FOR ROYAL SOCIETY OF NEW SOUTH WALES
BICENTENNIAL POSTGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP

Each year, the Society awards three Bicentennial Postgraduate Scholarships. The value of the scholarships is determined annually by Council, and includes a complimentary year of Associate Membership of the Society. The awards will be made primarily on the basis of an academic paper that is published by a higher degree research student, enrolled at a university in NSW or the ACT. The paper must have been published in final form (electronic or paper form) after 1 July in the preceding year. The student must have been enrolled as a higher degree student at the time of the initial submission to the journal in which the paper appeared. The student need not be the only or the first author on the paper but if there are multiple authors their role in the work should be carefully explained. These details and an outline of the paper and its significance should be summarised in no more than one page. The curriculum vitae of the student will also be considered as will recommendations by the nominators, one of which should be the supervisor.

Winners are expected to deliver a short presentation of their work at a general meeting of the Society in February or later of the year following that in which the award was made, and also to submit a short paper to the Society's Journal.

Postgraduate Scholarships were first awarded by the Royal Society of NSW in 1999 and in 2023 were redesignated by Council to commemorate the Society's Bicentenary. Nominations open on 1 July each year and close on 30 September. Award winners are announced by the end of that calendar year with formal presentations of the awards in the following year. All nominations require a nominator and a seconder other than the applicant and who need not be Members of the Society. The applicant's supervisor must provide confirmation of the student's candidature and should also be a nominator of the student. All Awards include assessment relative to opportunity. To submit a Nomination, complete and return the form, together with the required curriculum vitae and letters of nomination and support, to awards-nominations@royalsoc.org.au by 30 September of the year of nomination.
